

---

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
Introduction	1
Alexandra Coțofană
Part I. Reinventing the State
Chapter 1. Adamastor Unbound? Whiteness and Landscape in Post-1994 South Africa	23
Scott Burnett
Chapter 2. Part of the Landscape: Quebecois Nationalism and Indigenous Sentience	43
Philippe Blouin
Chapter 3. Ingrained Ontologies: How Romania's Institutionalized Processes Teach Us to Think with Xenophobic Sentient Landscapes	67
Alexandra Coțofană
Chapter 4. Hostile Territory: Communal Politics and Sentient Landscape in Ladakh, Himalayan India	98
Callum Pearce
Part II. Famous Fascisms
Chapter 5. Forests as the Sentient Bridge between German Landscape and Identity	121
Hikmet Kuran
Chapter 6. Unruly Landscapes: Contested Desert Imaginaries in Post-Franco Spain	142
Arvid van Dam

Chapter 7. Shinkoku: Reconsidering the Concept of Sentient Landscapes from Japan	160
David Malitz
Chapter 8. Imagining Chile’s South: The Making of a Phobic Landscape of Prestige in the Forests	186
Georg T. A. Krizmanics
Part III. The Skeptics
Chapter 9. Can the Forests be Xenophobic? Migrant Pathways through Croatia and the Forest as Cover	211
Sarah Czerny, Marijana Hameršak, Iva Pleše, and Sanja Bojanić
Chapter 10. Footsteps through the City: Encounters with Social Justice in Czech Urban Landscapes	229
Susanna Trnka
Epilogue. Why Is It Vital to Scrutinize the Connection between Landscape, Sentience, and Xenophobia in the Age of Deepening Crises of Democracy and Ecology?	251
Hikmet Kuran
Index	263